San Francisco, Cal.—Twenty-three sailors dead and injured; seven destroyers of the Pacific fleet wrecked off Point Arguello light in the Pacific ocean between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

These were outstanding consequences today of the navy's major marine disaster in Pacific waters. The injured were being nursed at hospitals here; a task which drivers headed for San Diego, the naval base, while the seven ships were fast approaching total wrecks by the pounding of the surf.

The warships went ashore while cruising from San Francisco to San Diego Saturday night, shortly after 5 o'clock, in a dense fog. A mistaken position in relation to the coast line is believed to have caused the crash. The destroyers were speeding through

Washington.—The theory was expressed today by high naval officials that a tidal wave or other seismic disturbance, reacting from the Japanese earthquake, was the cause of the disaster to destroyers off California yesterday.

The fatalities were divided among the destroyers. Seven from the Delany and the others died on the destroyer Xiang, which turned turtle and sank in one minute and 37 seconds.

MINERS, OPERATORS EQUALLY TO BLAME

"The Legislative, Judicial and Executive branches of this government must not permit a Union of Operators, a Union of Miners, nor a Union of both to become greater than the Union of the States."
—Conclusion of the United States' Coal Commission in the report just submitted.

Washington.—Comparing the controversy in the coal situation to that over slavery just prior to the Civil war, the United States Coal Commission declared in a report submitted to President Coolidge today that the national interest required establishment of a fixed code for settlement of this and other industrial disputes.

Regardless of the inherent rights possessed by both sides, the Commission held, the necessity of coal, to the general public, makes it incumbent upon both operators and workers "to make some personal sacrifices in the interest of the common weal."

The condition reveals the conflict between the definition in the Declaration of Independence concerning human rights, and the then clearly constitutional right of human slavery, the report said. "The great mass of those arrayed upon either side were unwilling to compromise or adjust. It was permitted to go on until the agony of a fraternal war solved the problem. It is to be hoped that we have learned wisdom by experience."

Equal Justice for All
The outbreak at Herrin, Ill., in June, 1918, and the more recent disturbance in the West Virginia fields were cited as indicative of the serious aspect of the general situation.

The Commission reviewed the history of both cases in detail, but declined to fix the responsibility further than to say the serious results might be attributed to the intense passions which had been gradually fostered among the members of the two opposing camps, and to the attitude of the communities involved toward law and order.

While public officials at Herrin undoubtedly were lax in performing their duty, the report said, there was no evidence that the United Mine Workers foresaw the fatal consequences of the conflict between union and operator at that place.

"If industrial peace is to be hoped for," the Commission said, "then some method must be found to guarantee, as near as full human judgment may, equally exact justice to capital, to labor and to the public. There must be one yardstick adopted by which all controverted questions are to be measured. Public interest demands that certain fixed principles shall be recognized by both capital and labor as this yardstick."

Declaring it would be better for the participants themselves to work out the exact terms of the code, the Commission set forth as the framework the following principles:

Tokyo.—Japan's greatest disaster came like a bolt from a clear sky. There was no warning, no preliminary rumblings of the earth. A tremendous shock, crashes of brick and mortar and wood—cries and screams and cries of dying and fear struck. It added to the instantaneous suffering, great fires burst from the quivering ruins.

Frightened thousands who had escaped death and injury in the collapse of buildings crowded to the open places and into structures that apparently were earth-shaken.

Many of the victims died in the flames that quickly hemmed them in.

Yokohama, the great Japanese port, received the brunt of the shock and rapidly spreading fires.

PINCHOT ACTS TO PREVENT GOUGING OF COAL USERS

Harrisburg, Pa.—Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, consuming states suggesting investigation of methods "to prevent gouging" of coal consumers, with a view to a personal conference later concerning joint action.

The governor's four-point plan for action against the gouging between anthracite operators and union miners formed the basis of a proposed new two-year contract, agreed on Saturday night by members of the operators' policy committee and officials of the miners union.

Urges Rate Adjustment.
He took up the price problem in a letter to President Coolidge, which he urged the commission, and state action toward readjustment of freight rates on anthracite and announced his purpose of calling on governors of all anthracite-consuming states to investigate profits of dealers in coal, wholesalers, brokers, jobbers and retailers.

In his letter Governor Pinchot declared the "total legitimate" increase in the cost of coal under the settlement terms would be about sixty cents a ton. Of this, he said, not less than ten cents should be taken up by all the operators, many of whom, he declared, could absorb the entire 60 cent increase and still make abundant profits.

"Public Action Needed."
"The remainder of the 60 cents should never reach the consumer," he added, "this amount, and probably much more" will be exacted unless public action is taken to prevent it.

Re opening of the mines is dependent only on ratification by a tripartite convention of operators, miners and the anthracite region, Sept. 17.

SEARCH RECORD OF MAN WHO MARRIED ROCK CO. WOMAN

WOODS, ALIAS DR. ALLEN, HELD AFTER LONG SEARCH.

MUST FACE TRIAL

Charge of Murder and Bigamy May be Fought Out in Seattle.

Evanston.—The searchlight of investigation is being turned on the activities of A. E. Woods, alias Dr. Percival Allen, who under the name of Woods, on June 21 was married here to Mrs. Mabel Belle Barber, daughter of the Rev. A. W. Stephens, pastor of the Evanston Baptist church, with the arrest of the alleged bigamist and murderer in Los Angeles.

Woods, or Dr. Allen, as he is best known, will be turned over to authorities and probably will face trial at Seattle on a murder charge for the death of Miss Annie Marie Danielson of Minneapolis, who died of poison on July 15, 1916. Investigation by police disclosed that, a few days before her death, the Minneapolis girl had gone through a neck marriage with Dr. Allen, who confessed at the time that he had duped the woman. As a result of his confession, Allen was held on a charge of bigamy.

Nothing was found in the analysis of the stomach contents at the time of the woman's death. Dr. Allen having told the attending physicians that his "wife" died of consumption, the body was buried at her old home at Goveia, Ia., but the body was exhumed and brought to Minneapolis, where examination by Dr. John O. East, Dr. George Frankforter showed strychnine in the body. The investigation was aided at the instigation of Lieut. Wilmet Danielson of (Continued on page 5)

LOCAL HARD COAL TO GO UP HIGHER
Advance at the Mines Made and Buyer Will Have to Pay.

Increase in the price of domestic anthracite coal in Janesville, amounting to between 75 cents and a dollar per ton may be expected in the near future, James Field, president of the Elkhorn Lumber company, said Monday.

Figures recently announced by the United States Coal commission, quoting hard coal costs at Elkhorn, showed a decline in the respective types are $13.17, $12.90 and $12.90. Freight amounts to $1.75 for each variety.

The statement by the commission warns that allowance must be made on the one hand for the dealers' loss by degradation and his cost item and a fair margin of profit.

"Anthracite is sold at the mines on the basis of the gross ton of 2,240 pounds. Prices and freights shown are those reported by dealers in coal, purchased from lake docks or direct from mines. It is impossible in many cases to state which are gross and which net ton prices. Most of the anthracite received in Janesville is shipped from Lake Superior, Sheboygan or Milwaukee. Some cars are routed through Chicago.

Since the figures were obtained by the commission, said Mr. Field, the cost has jumped about 25 cents per ton. A boost of between 75 cents and a dollar in the nearest cost may be looked for in the near future. Retail prices increase in the same proportion, it is thought.

Farm Bureau Official Information

Farming Getting Better and Better, Declares Bennett

That the farming business is getting better and better every day, is the statement made by C. C. Bennett, Denver, president of the Western Securities investment company, in a Colorado newspaper recently. Mr. Bennett is a former Janesville man. He is also a member of the board of governors of the National Farm Mortgage Bankers' association.

"Any farmer," said Mr. Bennett, "who uses judgment in investing his crop, works hard and takes as good care of his business as a merchant or manufacturer, is prosperous."

"A good index of the farm business is the way that mortgages are being cared for. Practically all that we hold, covering 5,000 entries and representing over $15,000,000, are now promptly paid as to interest and principal. Farmers are buying fewer expensive devices and expending more upon their work. They are sticking closer to business. They are diversifying their crops, raising more hogs and reducing waste. All these things are making them more prosperous. Wheat is a very small factor."

DAIRY DELEGATES VISIT WISCONSIN

Madison.—The second group of foreign delegates to the World's Dairy Congress to be held in the early part of October will visit dairy sections of Wisconsin September 18 to 21.

Arriving in Milwaukee on the morning of the 18th the delegates will inspect the cream city's noted distributing plants and then motor through the dairy districts of Milwaukee and Waukesha counties to Oconomowoc. There they will visit a condenser, a certified milk plant and look over several of the outstanding Holstein herds.

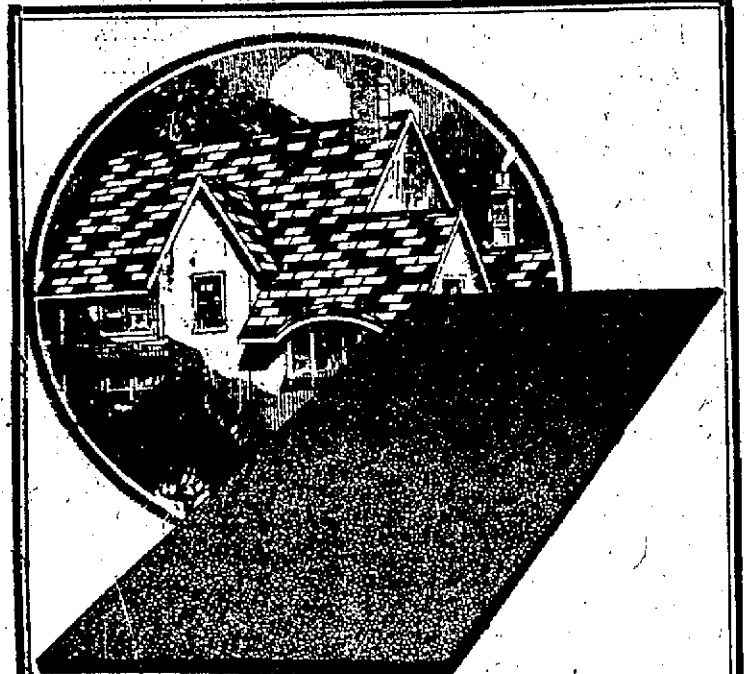

Touring north the party will have an opportunity to view many Badger farms. Their next stop will be at Plymouth where cheese storing warehouses will be visited. From day Lac will play host to the foreign dairy men the following day. Several Guernsey herds will be inspected and the delegates will also see American cheese in the process of manufacture. Fort Atkinson will claim the visitors' attention on the afternoon of September 20.

The final day of the visit in this state will find them at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture and Experiment station. Here they will be shown many phases of work along agricultural lines which is being carried on at the Badger farm school. Leaving Wisconsin they will next visit agricultural centers in Minnesota.

Pennsylvania's Success in Ending Coal War Held Notable Feat

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1912, Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington.—Gifford Pinchot, governor of Pennsylvania, for vice president of the United States on the Republican ticket with President Coolidge, is the talk here today following immediately upon the news of the governor's successful mediation in the hard coal controversy, spending the nation a strike of serious proportions.

Mr. Coolidge is lavish in his praise of the Pennsylvania governor. That is the talk here today following immediately upon the news of the governor's successful mediation in the hard coal controversy, spending the nation a strike of serious proportions.

Pinchot's work. When the Pennsylvania first came to the White House to volunteer his services, President Coolidge wondered why Mr. Coolidge at the outset of his administration should pass up an opportunity to gain some prestige for himself. But there is a wholesome respect for state governments as he himself has been the governor of Massachusetts. He felt as have others in the federal government that one of the difficulties America has had to face in recent years was a tendency to run to the White House with every industrial controversy of major importance. States have not used their legal or moral influence as effectively as they might have done. There have been exceptions as for instance Henry Aldrich in Kansas but in the main the federal government has been constantly sought as a mediator for the last 10 years. Many strikes have been averted and the work of conciliation has been effective but with the powerful influence of state governments it is felt here that even more progress might have been made.

Money Is Sought Here for Child Labor Committee

With the formation of a Janesville committee, a mail campaign is being conducted here to obtain memberships for the Wisconsin Branch National Child Labor Committee to give the national committee the encouragement and practical help that a fund raised by Wisconsin citizens will mean.

Members of the local committee are: Mrs. Percy Munger, Supt. Frank O. Holt, Judge C. L. Field, Mrs. C. A. Sanborn, L. J. Bennett, James Dorrans, Bernard Palmer, Mrs. O. W. Atherton, H. S. Haggart, Mrs. John Fitzgerald, Miss Mary Barker and Mrs. E. W. Wortendyke.

Pointing out that more than 1,000,000 children between 14 and 16 leave school every year to go to work, the committee tells how two attempts of the federal government to extend its protection to child laborers by indirect means have been declared unconstitutional by the U. S. supreme court. It now appears, says the committee, that a constitutional amendment is necessary, but this has been laid over until the next session of congress.

Jews to Observe Yom Kippur Soon

Jews of Janesville will join with those throughout the world in the observance of the Day of Atonement, or Yom Kippur, from sunset Wednesday, Sept. 19, to sunset Thursday, Sept. 20. This is regarded by all Jews as the holiest day in the calendar of the synagogue. On this day the most poignant and awe-inspiring litany and prayers are recited. No other holy day of the synagogue has been endowed with quite such significance and solemnity.

On this Day of Atonement each individual learns to approach God in true humility, imploring his pardon for sin, promising to amend his ways and make himself worthier as man and citizen.

A feature of the day is its memorial service. This service reminds the worshiper that while death awaits every one, death is not the end of all existence and is therefore not to be feared. Immortal life has been implanted within everyone and all who contribute to the good of humanity and thus hasten the advent of the Kingdom of God are not forgotten. Thus the living immortalize the dead by emulating their noble deeds.

Anxiety Felt for Elkhorn Woman on Way to Korea

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Elkhorn.—General sympathy is extended to Dr. and Mrs. Fred Taylor in their anxiety over the whereabouts of their daughter, Mrs. Phyllis, who was married in June to Rev. Bery Adams, and sailed in August for Korea, as missionaries under Rev. Bery Adams. Dr. Taylor received a telegram Friday that the steamer President Lincoln had docked at Yokohama, Aug. 28th, and the missionaries were to sail for Korea. Dr. Taylor and friends continue to hope that all got safely out of the danger zone and that later cables will be received to this effect.

MINERS, OPERATORS EQUALLY TO BLAME FOR COAL TROUBLES

has not been freely and voluntarily entered into by the miners. The right of a man to work when, where, for whom and under what conditions and at what wage he chooses, so long as he does not encroach upon the rights of others, is a right which should never be interfered with, and the state must furnish him protection and peace while he exercises this right.

In a free government men have a right to combine themselves together into organizations for collective bargaining with reference to terms and conditions under which they will work; they must exercise this right without force and intimidation, and must not interfere with the right of those who choose to dispose of their time individually.

A society has a right to fix a limitation beyond which it will not permit others to go. It is the duty of organizations to go to the limit of their power to protect their members and who gives an honest day's work sufficient wage to enable that person and his family to live in accordance with the standards of American life, and to pay in addition thereto for skill and experience.

The general public has a right to demand of its government that it shall not freeze in the midst of an abundance of coal. Unless essential and labor saving methods, that will furnish to the public coal when needed, "an outraged public sentiment will furnish the supply by either the army or the penitentiary."

When contracts have been voluntarily entered into, the industry itself should provide boards of arbitration, both local and national, to settle disputes of union in accordance with the terms of the contract and the principles herein set out.

Present Coal Situation

While the report dealt with the coal industry generally, the commission gave particular attention to the present situation. Most of the industrial districts which have operated to stop the machinery of production, and frequently resulted in violence and bloodshed, the Commission ascribed to the following basic causes:

Disputes as to what are popularly known as the civil rights of American citizens.

Practical breach of these rights in the industry, even when theoretically acknowledged.

Inappropriate application to present conditions of principles enunciated under totally different economic conditions.

Attitude of public opinion produced by ancient grievances.

Law administration of the law induced through fear, favor, affection, malice, hatred, or ill-will.

Unwise, even though lawful interference of strangers in local conditions.

The effect of universal suffrage upon law administration.

"There is no intellectual dispute," the Commission reported, "touching the academic proposition of the right of a man to run an open shop, nor of the right of men to organize for the purposes of collective bargaining."

Doubt Criminal Intent

"The Commission does not find, notwithstanding many unfortunate occurrences, unlawful acts and unwise statements that it is or has been the ultimate object of the United Mine Workers of America to unionize all the mines by force if necessary. Upon the other hand, it does not find, regardless of unfortunate statements and unwise conduct, that it is the fixed purpose of non-union operators to destroy the United Mine Workers. The Commission chooses rather to give those who are from the moral standard, whatever it may be from the legal standpoint, charged with violation of the law, the benefit of the doubt as to criminal intent."

Analysis of any single unlawful act, with a view to fixing responsibility, would not serve, the Commission said, to give any justification "save as such justification could be found in the common and ordinary passion of mankind, for the other side to have met force with force, to have fought fire with fire."

The disorders at Herrin were cited as a case in point. Without attempting to fix responsibility, the Commission found the fatal outbreak at the plant of the Southern Illinois Coal Company to have been fostered by the fevered state of local public opinion, which had developed into a "class hatred."

"There is no doubt that when the promoter started to operate this mine in defiance of the union, he was inviting mob violence and fighting with death," the report said. "He knew it and prepared to meet it. Those in the mob undoubtedly believed it was an attempt to return to old conditions before the mines had been unionized."

"There were, of course, fatal weaknesses of duty on the part of public officials, and neither the officials nor the public wanted troops to protect the operator in his union-destroying operations. It might have been stopped by the sheriff, by the officers of the miners' union, by public sentiment, but all were for the union and all believed that an attempt was being made to destroy it."

The Psychology of Herrin

"Although the Commission finds

that the tragedy might have been prevented, it also finds that the union of miners and the public officials never anticipated that it would happen. They all believed that the non-union miners would be kicked out of the country and that this would end it. Then came into the equation an unexpected quantity. Nobody can tell how much this had to do with the failure to punish the members of the mob. It was the storm of protest that swept through the public press of the country. It was the condemnation of the union, the union officials, and the public officials. It presented the common aspect of a stranger interfering in a family row. The Commission, of course, cannot say what might have been the result if public opinion had waited until the courts had either attempted or refused to discharge their duty. But the whole economic life of the country puts it beyond peradventure that when an indiscriminate assault on the union and the people of the country was rendered necessary, the punishment of anybody impossible in that country.

"Brazen Audacity"

"This statement, unfortunately, cannot end there. Clothed with all the charitable excuses that are set out, these furnish no justification for the brazen audacity with which subordinated officials and members of the United Mine Workers of America have been exposing the cause and defending the lawbreakers is further shown to the Commission by the fact that these have since then returned to the scene where the tragedy occurred, and have paid therefor $728,000."

The local view of the incident, the report continued, was "well stated in the opinion of the coroner's jury" which found that the deaths resulted from the act "direct and indirect, of officials of the Southern Illinois Coal Company."

"Neither the sheriff nor any of his deputies interfered or even visited the scene," the commission said. "The police officers of Herrin ignored the march through one of the paved streets of the city of prisoners and their execution at the cemetery, although all the rest of the population knew about it and many followed and witnessed the tragedy."

Never Will Be Convicted

"These homicides took place in the presence of innumerable witnesses. It cannot be true that the persons, or many of them, engaged in the mob were not known to citizens of that county. Yet there has been no conviction for this breach of the law. The small fact, nor is there the remotest possibility there ever will be one."

Regardless of Supreme Court decisions establishing the validity of the so-called "yellow dog" contracts, which prohibits a miner in some open shop plants from joining a union, the Commission declared these documents to be a source of economic irritation and suggested their elimination from practices in the industry.

"The Commission reiterates," the report concluded, "that it is seeking something better for the future than the mere fixing of responsibility for past violations. It does not minimize the gravity of all sorts of crimes which have taken place. It cannot too strongly condemn the custom of permitting either operators or miners to furnish deputy sheriffs, policemen or other public officials not paid out of the public treasury. The state and local government has not risen to the level of the average idea of justice in America which has not both the will and the power to preserve the life and the property of its citizens.

"The Commission condemns equally the law local government, which has seemed to render it necessary for the owner of property to police it at his own expense and in the event of strikes to bring in professional strike breakers, who are frequently better gunmen than they are laborers, and the exercise of that right which inherently belongs to an American citizen, namely, that a stranger volunteer family walking into a community, hiring a hall, and giving that community a lecture on what its rights and duties are. Many good citizens are people, seeking to serve the common weal, have unwittingly contributed more to crime than to character making."

Must Assume Jurisdiction

"And finally, if not the patriotic American private citizen, nor business common-sense of the industry shall lead all persons engaged in it not only to observe the law but to help enforce the law, and if state and local authorities shall be impotent in preventing and convicting violations thereof, then it is the solemn duty of the Congress of the United States to assume jurisdiction over these American rights, bringing the full power of the Union to their preservation by the presentation and conviction of all persons, whether high or low, who shall dare to violate them."

"The Legislative, Judicial, and Executive branches of this Government must not permit Union of Operators, a Union of Miners, nor a Union of both to become greater than the Union of the States."

At the Theatres

AT THE BEVERLY
Gloria Swanson's latest picture at the Beverly, "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," is typically Swansonish, in that it is a marvelous beauty and style show. The star appears in gown after gown of marvelous style and she keeps the women in the audience breathless. Here, Gloria even shows them that she has a bobbed hair, and how to arrange it into one of her marvelous coiffures.

But for acting, Miss Swanson does not take the place she does as a style model. She has the ability, however, as was shown in "The Impossible Mrs. Belloc," and perhaps it is the story that gives her an opportunity to "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife." It is of the impoverished girl of little who marries money, only to find her husband had been seven times married and seven times divorced. She determines to divorce him, too, but after committing some acts which she later regrets, she discovers she loves the man.

With such gowns as are worn and with scenes after scenes of elaborate society life, the picture will please a great many people. It is taken from M. T. Barb, a French novelist, and is an English, had a long run on New York and Chicago stages, and now in pictures, with a good supporting cast, Miss Swanson is making her usual hit.

It Pays to Pay Cash!

The saving of the difference between "cash prices" and "charge" or "credit prices" is enough to turn the tide of affairs in many families that today are bordering on despair.

Every business man knows the advantages that are to be had in cash transactions.

The J. C. Penney Company sells for cash and thus always has the money to pay cash for its purchases. Large savings are thus obtained.

Buying for less, we sell for less, and, as is seen, your cash purchases here save you many dollars in the course of a year. "Money does talk!"

At the Theatres

AT THE BEVERLY
Gloria Swanson's latest picture at the Beverly, "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," is typically Swansonish, in that it is a marvelous beauty and style show. The star appears in gown after gown of marvelous style and she keeps the women in the audience breathless. Here, Gloria even shows them that she has a bobbed hair, and how to arrange it into one of her marvelous coiffures.

But for acting, Miss Swanson does not take the place she does as a style model. She has the ability, however, as was shown in "The Impossible Mrs. Belloc," and perhaps it is the story that gives her an opportunity to "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife." It is of the impoverished girl of little who marries money, only to find her husband had been seven times married and seven times divorced. She determines to divorce him, too, but after committing some acts which she later regrets, she discovers she loves the man.

With such gowns as are worn and with scenes after scenes of elaborate society life, the picture will please a great many people. It is taken from M. T. Barb, a French novelist, and is an English, had a long run on New York and Chicago stages, and now in pictures, with a good supporting cast, Miss Swanson is making her usual hit.

In his sermon Sunday morning on "The Bible School," the Rev. E. A. Gilliland defined this department as being the church at work developing Christian character and training boys and girls, men and women for Christian service. He asked that the following slogan be adopted by the local church: "Every member of the church in the Bible school and every member of the Bible school in the church service."

The Municipal Court Investigating Committee.

Perhaps the public finds it hard to understand just why a committee of laymen who have no power under law or standing in the courts under any statute should be called upon to pass upon evidence in the recent investigation of the municipal court by itself. It seems to add comedy to farce.

A powerless committee can certainly add nothing to what has been done. It might be possible to learn more were an investigation to be held by a lawfully constituted tribunal with powers clearly defined—the attorney general for instance.

The eclipse of the sun seen in California, is nothing to the eclipse of H. Johnson also visible in California.

Bigger Than the Government.

The verdict of the United States Coal Commission in its conclusion of the report published in another column of the Gazette today, will receive the hearty endorsement of the public. There is no room in this country for a combination of either miners or operators which will be bigger than the union of states. Over and above all is government, and defiance of the public is defiance of the constituted authority vested in the public and by them transferred for execution to its representatives.

The coal strike is settled but the public will pay for it with an added 75 cents and a dollar a ton in price; this too when the figures show that the operators have made more money than ever at the present price. It was easy for the operators to accept a raise in wages and make the people pay for it. These other matters, not yet arranged, are merely a part of the give and take of the miners and operators in handling union affairs and mining details. The advantage in a settlement comes in the news that anthracite will be mined and a supply will be available. But the movement for substitutes will go on and thousands of homes wherein hard coal has been burned, will find some other fuel supply to take its place. Monopoly of the anthracite coal vested in a few Pennsylvania operators has reached such a point that miners and operators are larger than government and the public pays for the autonomy of the monopoly.

Settled Outside of Court

Greece has accepted the terms of Italy as in a measure revised by the council of Ambassadors, for the Janina assassinations. The League of Nations has been entirely sidetracked and its impotence is once more emphasized. The ambassadors meant power of a kind that Italy understood and Greece appreciated. That the league, with its interminable red tape and questioned interpretations of its covenants, would have taken months to have come to a final decision, was an estoppel to a settlement through that machinery. Italy makes no reparations for the cold blooded murder of the noncombatants at Corfu, a question to give trouble to the allies. There are also other questions in which both Greece and Italy are concerned in reference to the Balkans and Jugoslavia has a number of points to be settled, but the likelihood of these nations referring any of them to the League of Nations is far remote since the fasces just completed following Greek appeal to that selfsame league.

It would be a fine campaign in 1924 if the republican candidate were Calvin Coolidge and Oscar Underwood should be the democratic candidate.

The Hen Pays Dividends.

In these trying times for the farmer the best asset is the laying hen. She is the cash producer of the farm. She will pay the interest on the loans if she is given a chance and buy the staples at the grocery store. Missouri poultry products are more valuable than the gold and silver mined in Colorado. When grain is cheap the hen pays the biggest dividends of anything the farmer can produce. A hundred hens on every farm, big and little, in the state of Wisconsin, would add an immense sum to the wealth of the state. Multiply that number by all the farm will feed and nothing else pays so well in proportion to the investment. It is time we added poultry to other live stock as a productive investment in Wisconsin.

FASCISTI SAVE MONEY

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington.—The Fascisti of Italy have as active a talent for getting things done as the world of finance has in political affairs, according to a report which has just come to the attention of American financial authorities. The report covers the finances of the Fascisti government and was prepared by Alberto de Stefani, the minister of finance in Premier Mussolini's cabinet.

The point of outstanding interest in the report of how Italian finances have prospered under the Blackshirts is that the burden of the income tax has been more equitably distributed. In the old days before the war and even during the war it was charged that, either through bad law or inefficient enforcement, many persons were able to escape the income tax. This was one of the first weak points in Italian affairs which was attacked by the Fascisti government when it came into power. At the time of the success of the Fascisti there were but 600,000 persons paying income tax in the kingdom of Italy. This number has now increased to 1,315,000 persons.

The minister of finance has appointed what he terms a financial police. Presumably these are officials somewhat similar to the American collectors of internal revenue and revenue agents. These officials are diligent in seeking out delinquent taxpayers and evaders of taxation. The doubling of the number of persons on whom the burden of tax will fall is expected to permit of a reduction in tax rates and still bring in a revenue greater than what was formerly collected.

Another reform made by the Fascisti government's financial regime is the strengthening of the central taxing authorities. Like the United States, Italy has had a dual system of taxation; one federal, for the whole country and one provincial, like our state taxes. The federal taxes have been made dominant and they now have preference over the provincial imposts, so that the general government is sure of its revenue. Care is taken to prevent any serious interference between the rights of the kingdom and the rights of the tributary provinces, just as a nice balance is preserved between federal and state rights in the United States.

Taxes have been greatly simplified by the Fascisti regime. In the former administration, there were thirteen different kinds of taxes. The Fascisti administration has cut these to four; a land tax, a buildings tax, an income tax and a sort of sales tax or tax on transactions as it is called. Great care has been exercised to avoid laying taxes which would have the effect of increasing the price of necessary foodstuffs, such as bread and wine.

One of Italy's sore spots has been the railway deficit. The Italian railways are under government ownership and operation and have been accumulating annual deficits for some time. Last year the railway deficit was $54,000,000 lire. During the fiscal year 1923-24 the Fascisti program provides for reducing this to $74,000,000 lire, a decrease of 280,000,000 lire. This improvement is expected to be announced in a few months, as rapid progress has been made toward it. One hundred and eighty million lire has been saved in operating expenditures and 100,000,000 lire has been added to the railway receipts.

The financial program for the next fiscal year calls for a further reduction of 284,000,000 lire in the railway deficit and the following year for a complete wiping out of this item. Once on the credit side of the ledger, the Fascisti expect to reduce rates drastically. Whether this plan will prove successful must remain a matter of conjecture until the time comes but the report shows that good progress has been made so far.

The Fascisti financial administration has been as drastic and revolutionary in many respects as the military administration. Expenditures which previous governments made have been dispensed with while other policies have been embarked upon which are wholly new. In general, however, there has been more saving of funds resulting from what has been abandoned than from the new activities engaged in.

Some of the notable savings include an annual saving of 285,000,000 lire by the abolition of the royal guard; 221,000,000 lire has been saved on public works; 162,000,000 lire in the pruning of military expenses; 161,000,000 lire in reforms in the administration and operation of the postal, telegraph and telephone; 75,000,000 lire in the customs services and various other amounts in the home office, the colonial office and other branches of the civil establishment. A total saving of 1,595,000,000 lire is claimed in the report.

Against these savings must be set new expenses arising from the undertaking of programs to which the Fascisti were pledged when they seized the reins of government in their famous bloodless revolution—the dramatic march of the Blackshirts on Rome.

The principal item is one of 750,000,000 lire for the prompt payment of war damages. As this sum is to be financed by the sale of bonds and not taken directly from the treasury, the finance minister declares that only the sum necessary to pay interest on the amount, 75,000,000 lire, should be charged up as a new expenditure. Seventy-four million has been added to strengthen the air service of the army and 122,000,000 for a ship subsidy such as former President Harding tried to have congress enact for the American merchant marine.

When all the budget cuts made by Fascisti are taken into consideration and against them is set the total of the new expenditures, a net reduction in the government expense of nearly half a billion lire still remains, so the report claims that the new revolutionary regime is doing its job in a creditable manner and bringing Italy back toward sobriety.

The Fascisti financial regime recognizes the war debt owed to the United States and has made no plea for cancellation, such as has been made by France. However, the Fascisti leaders say the terms should be accorded Italy in the funding of the debt, equally favorable with those accorded Great Britain. To such a proposal, Chairman Mellon and the World War Foreign Debt Funding commission have acceded.

How long the revolutionary Fascisti government will stand can not be predicted with any measure of safety but American officials see no reason why it should not continue to be successful in the light of the competent management of the finances which the report just received reveals.

Such a report is of special interest in this country now because this winter negotiations will be commenced on the funding of the Italian debt to the United States.

The sting of bruises sore
Nor hunger, unappeased,
But is God pleased?
Serve not your pride,
That way lies shame.
Bear it you must men's blame
But, high above the crowd,
Let God be proud.

Who's Who Today

DR. RUDOLPH HILFERDING.

"The man behind the scenes" has long been the title given to Hilferding, now minister of finance in the new Stresemann government in Germany. Hilferding's power has been felt in Germany's political life since early in the war although until the present time he has not been prominent in public office or parliamentary debates.

Hilferding is not yet fifty, although near it. His contentment of manner is said to be his most marked trait. He is rated a self-made man and is not wealthy. He is an Austrian by birth, naturalized a German citizen.

He was born in Vienna, the son of a physician. He studied to be a doctor. He took an interest in politics early in life. When he was young as a student he was a socialist and a member of the democratic party in Austria.

He drew interest with a book "Das Finanzkapital". He early became a member of the socialist democratic party in Austria and learned the fine points of the game under Max Adler, leader of that party. He continued to practice medicine, however, and at the start of the war served as an army doctor in the Austrian army.

Dr. Hilferding went to Germany shortly after the revolution. When the independent and social democrats formed a coalition and took over the government, Hilferding was asked to join the cabinet but refused and remained out until the Stresemann cabinet was formed.

He accompanied Chancellor Bethmann and Walter Rathenau to the Geneva conference a year ago and then became professor of politics and economics in the new school of politics at Berlin.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Sept. 10, 1853.—The entire corn and tobacco crop of the county, if not of the entire north-west, was destroyed by frost last night and the night before. The county, from one-quarter to one-half of the tobacco crop had been harvested, but not more than one-quarter of the corn crop was thus saved.

TEN YEARS AGO

Sept. 10, 1913.—First arrests in the city-wide movement to clean the city of houses of assignation and those who sell liquor to minors were made last night and were brought into court this morning, where they pleaded not guilty.—Fluke O'Hara, noted Irish actor who played "Old Dublin" at the Myers Sunday, was entertained by local Irishmen.

SALT AND BLOOD PRESSURE.
Restrictions of the salt ration by a measure which has proved beneficial in many disease conditions, notably hyper-tension, by excessive fluid retention, to acid secretion in the stomach, epilepsy, diabetes, nephritis with dropsy (edema), arteriosclerosis attended with anginal, high blood pressure, the common cause of plethoric (full blooded) obesity.

The herbivorous animals must have salt, but the carnivorous animals get enough salt in the flesh and the blood of their prey. Man's salt requirements are determined by his diet but his use of salt as a condiment is determined rather by an artificially cultivated taste. Many of the luxuries or rich foods are like to indulge in are extremely salty.

Man requires about half a teaspoonful of salt daily, and takes from three to six times as much as he requires. Excess of salt is a danger to health. In the first place it causes the retention of fluid in the body of too much water, a condition which is often mistaken for anemia and malnutrition with iron. The excess of salt produces increased osmotic pressure in the tissues, which favors the development of edematous or dropsical states and of hypertension. The water in the blood is waterlogged condition of the tissues of one who takes too much salt affects the muscles, of course, and causes quite a fatigue or moderate exertion of that tired feeling all the time.

Restrictions of the daily intake of salt has been found remarkably effective in reducing hypertension and excessive blood pressure. It has brought relief to annoying head noises to many sufferers. Particularly those with some degree of hypertension. Restriction of salt intake for a period of two or three months often overcomes the beginnings of the lining membrane of the upper air passages which constantly troubles some persons and which they fondly call "catarrh."

Food may be made without salt. Fresh meat requires no salt seasoning. Both bread and meat contain about half a day's ration of salt to the pound. Fresh water fish contains salt, but sea fish contains much more. An egg contains about four grains of salt, which is plenty. Fresh butter need not be salted. Potatoes or rice may be prepared in many palatable ways without salt.

Smoked bacon, corned beef, codfish, ham, salt pork, fresh or canned sea fish, dried or smoked fish, dried meats, shellfish, brine, cheese, Swiss cheese, margarine, mustard, sauce, ketchup and most extracts should not be eaten if one desires to restrict the salt ration.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
My brother chews a block of magnesium after each meal. Is there any danger from this practice? (D. C.)

Answer—Magnesia is a comparatively harmless salt slightly cathartic in effect if much acid is present in the stomach. I should not advise chewing it as a habit, however, for that places a burden on the glands which secrete the hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

Great Albumen Specialist.
Should eggs be eaten sparingly if one has albumen in the kidneys? (N. E. M.)

Answer—We all have albumen in the kidneys. It is a normal constituent of the urine, the eating of eggs has no bearing on that.

Do Not Let Your Eyes.
Some time ago I started bathing my eyes with strong salt water and ever since all the time have been red and irritated. (A. E. H.)

Answer—Never apply to the eyes a salt solution stronger than one teaspoonful of salt to the pint of boiled water. That is called "normal salt solution," and has about the salt strength of the tears, hence does not irritate.

Q. Were southern slave owners allowed to free their slaves without assuming any responsibility for them? (W. W.)

A. Many of the southern states placed restrictions on the manumission of slaves which by 1860 had increased the number of free negroes to one-sixteenth of the total population. Restrictions of this kind were common to all states and the master must give bond that the freed slaves should not become a public charge. A second restriction very common obliged the master to remove the freed slave from the commonwealth in which he was freed. Liberia was acquired by the American Colonization Society for the purpose of providing a settlement for manumitted slaves. During the next twenty-five years 4,500 freed slaves were sent out.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Edgar Quenton Bartholomew had two nephews named the same, and two brothers. One had been absent in Europe for a term of years. He returned to America to make his home with his uncle. He met another cousin, daughter of the uncle, Orpha, with whom he promptly fell in love. Only to learn that the floor was understood to be an accident. This Edgar, and the uncle quarreled. In this house there was a mystery in the main stairs, steps other than one's own following up the stairs as one walked and a breath of cold air blown on one from some mysterious and unaccounted place. There was no love lost between the two main cousins and it was understood that the one marrying Orpha would be the heir to this uncle's fortune.

"It is late," she said. "Clarke is out and I have been waiting for Mr. Bartholomew. He has not come. Would you mind—Oh, there it is," she cried, as a sharp thump sounded in the stairs. "You will excuse me," releasing me with a gesture of relief.

An episode of small moment and hardly worth relating; but it is part of a final part, so far as I am concerned, of that day's story.

XIII.

The following day was less troublesome, and so was the next; then came the week of my school. One where and of Edgar's dominance in the house we all felt would soon be his own. Whether Orpha confided to him her latest news or not, I do not know. His week was up and I replaced him again in the daily care of our uncle. I sought to learn if help or disappointment had come to her in my absence. But beyond a graver bearing and a manifest determination not to be alone with me even for a few moments in any of the rooms on the ground floor, I received no answer to my question. Orpha could be very inscrutable when she liked.

On the day of the seven happy days of this week that three rather important conversations took place between Uncle and myself, portions of which I now propose to relate. Not by way of balance by repeating the preamble to any one of them or the other remarks. Just the bits necessary to make this story of the three Edgar's understandable.

Uncle is speaking.

"I have been criticised very severely by my family and leading men, but fully as earnestly by both men and women of my acquaintance, for my well-known determination to leave the main portion of my property to a man—the man who is to marry my daughter. My answer, has always been that no woman should be trusted with the responsibilities and conduct of a large estate. She has not the nerve, the experience, nor the acquaintanceship with other

No More Gray Hair—Says Science

Wonderful Clean, Colorless Liquid Restores Original Color Results in a Week

Science again has scored a triumph in the discovery of a very remarkable liquid known as Kolor-Bak. If you are gray, just apply this liquid to the hair and scalp and your hair will soon take on the actual color it had in the past. Not a trace of grayness will remain.

Kolor-Bak comes in the form of a clean and colorless liquid, containing properties which quickly restore the hair to its original color and give it renewed vigor. And note that the one preparation is for all colors of hair. No special solution required for each color—no samples of hair required.

You will find also that with Kolor-Bak the hair has the same shade throughout. It does not appear streaked, faded or "dyed." Every scientist, every physician, knows that gray hair is hair that has ceased to receive its normal supply of coloring matter or pigment from certain tiny cells (called follicles or papillae) in the scalp, because these cells have become inactive from illness, shock of some kind, scalp disease, dandruff, infection, neglect of the hair, or lack of circulation, etc. But no matter what the cause of the grayness, it is simply amazing to see how it disappears when Kolor-Bak is used. It is a real substitute for the natural pigmentation.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON. Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Can you tell me anything about my girl? She pretends to love me and allows me to love and kiss her. But she takes me to the movies and to the amusement places and makes me feel like a fool. I presume that she does not realize how much she talks about her former friends. It is not polite for her to do so, but it is a falling which many young people have, young men as well as young women.

In case you find that she does not want you to come to her house and call and always demands amusements that cause expense I would advise you to look about for a less meretricious girl.

You ask what is required of a young man besides filling all his promises. Of course the more interesting and well managed a young man is, the more chance he has of being popular.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am not used to telling my troubles, but need your advice. I am thirteen years old and have a very nice girl. I go with an older bunch. My other girl friends have dates. Will it be all right if I have date once in a while although my parents object? JERRY. You are too young to have "dates." Obey your parents because they have your interests at heart.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am in love with a girl in her teens. There is another girl who cares a lot for me and so I am undecided what to do. Please tell me what you would advise me to do. I am 20 years old. SAILOR.

Perhaps you show the girl too much devotion. Find some other girl friends too, so that she will not know how much she means to you. When she is less confident of your regard for her she is apt to like you better.

First Attempt.

Having once, by chance, made a noise that sounds like the noises he is trying to imitate, it is easier next time to form the mouth in the same fashion that resulted in that particular sound in the first place. So after all, it does not seem so difficult.

Learning to Talk.

We have no desire to go into such a scientific argument, but we do know that no matter what the nationality of the infant that his first efforts at making sounds are really a response to his mother's voice.

Children cannot repeat sounds with accuracy, but they do try to make some that sound like the sounds they hear. These sounds bring instant and pleasing response from their dear ones.

INEXPENSIVE POWDERS.

There is no special secret in the production of face and toilet powders, nor is a great deal of care necessary in making them. The best face powders are so exceedingly fine that only complicated machinery can produce the basic ingredients, but fortunately for the woman who must be economical these ingredients can be bought separately for less money than the mixed powder.

Good powder contains lead or bismuth, avoid these. They harm the skin. Good powder is almost entirely a vegetable product, with a base of starch and talcum which is finely ground French chalk. The starch is made from wheat, potatoes or rice, and is probably all sold as rice starch. Mostly it's made from potatoes and it's very good, though it never can be as finely as rice starch.

If you want a powder that clings well to the skin, mix eight parts of talcum and two parts of boric acid. If you want a cheaper powder, for bath purposes or for cooling a perspiring skin, mix two parts of boric acid powder and eight of corn starch—the sort you make puddings of. If you want a face powder, one ounce of boric acid powder, two of talcum and one of corn starch will give you an excellent one. Tint by adding very

Tidal Wave from Quake Wrecks Flotilla off California CALCUTTA SHAKEN BY TREMOR; MANY DIE

23 U. S. SAILORS DIE AS SQUADRON PILES ON ROCKS

SEVEN PACIFIC FLEET DESTROYERS ARE FOG VICTIMS.
15 MEN INJURED
Heavy Surf Pounding Ships Into Junk Following Night Tragedy.

BULLETIN.—The fate of Captain Holland and other members of the Pacific mail line, the Calcutta, who were with the ship after she hit a reef off San Miguel Island Saturday, remains in doubt. The general offices of the company have not yet received word from the wreck and no information as to the names of the crew members who stayed with the ship.

San Francisco, Cal.—Twenty-three sailors dead and injured; seven destroyers of the Pacific fleet of the battle fleet held fast between rocks off Point Anacapa, where the Pacific ocean between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

These were outstanding consequences today of the navy's major disaster in Pacific waters. The injured were being nursed at hospitals here; a train load of survivors was headed for San Diego, the naval base, while the seven ships were fast approaching total wrecks by the pounding of the surf.

File Up During Fog.
The wreckage was at night while cruising from San Francisco to San Diego Saturday night, shortly after 9 o'clock, in a dense fog. Mistaken position in relation to the coast line is believed to have caused the crash. The destroyers were speeding through the fog, hugging the shore in single file formation, when they piled up on the rocks from 200 to 500 yards apart, about 300 yards off shore.

The fleet was divided into two groups. Seven from the Delphy and the others from the destroyer Young, which tared turtle and sank in one minute and a half.

Other Given Chance.
The other destroyers, the S. P. Lee, Nicholas, Fuller, Chauncey and Wood, were given a chance to be saved. The Pacific coast line between San Francisco and San Diego jutted into the (Continued on page 9)

MINERS, OPERATORS EQUALLY TO BLAME

"The Legislative, Judicial and Executive branches of this government must not permit a Union of Operators, a Union of Miners, nor a Union of both to become greater than the Union of the States."
—Conclusion of the United States Coal Commission in the report just submitted.

Washington.—Comparing the controversy in the coal situation to that over slavery just prior to the Civil war, the United States Coal Commission declared in a report submitted to President Coolidge today that the national interest required establishment of a fixed code for settlement of this and other industrial disputes.

Regarding the inherent rights possessed by both sides, the Commission held, the necessity of coal to the general public makes it incumbent upon both operators and workers "to make some personal sacrifice in the interest of the common weal."

"The condition resembles the conflict between the definition in the Declaration of Independence concerning human rights, and the then clearly constitutional right of human slavery," the report said. "The great mass of those arrayed upon either side were unwilling to compromise or adjust. It was permitted to go on until the story of a fraternal war solved the problem. It is to be hoped that we have learned wisdom by experience."

Equal Justice for All.
The outbreak at Herrin, Ill., in June, 1922, and the more recent disturbance in the West Virginia fields were cited as indicative of the serious aspect of the coal situation has taken. The Commission reviewed the history of both cases in detail, but declined to fix responsibility further than to say the serious results might be attributed to the intense passions which had been gradually fostered among the members of the two opposing camps, and to the attitude of the communities involved toward law and order.

While public officials at Herrin undoubtedly were lax in performing their duty, the report said, there was no evidence that the United Mine Workers foresaw the fatal consequences of the conflict between union and operator at that place.

"If industrial peace is to be hoped for," the Commission said, "then some method must be found to guarantee, as near as fallible human judgment may, equally exact justice to capital, to labor and to the public. There must be one yardstick adopted by which all controverted questions are to be measured. Public interest demands that certain fixed principles shall be recognized by both capital and labor as this yardstick."

Declaring it would be better for the participants themselves to work out the exact terms of the code, the Commission set forth as the framework the following principles:

1. No contract is of any valid binding force in America which (Continued on page 5)

SEARCH RECORD OF MAN WHO MARRIED ROCK CO. WOMAN

WOODS, ALIAS DR. ALLEN, HELD AFTER LONG SEARCH.
MUST FACE TRIAL
Charge of Murder and Bigamy May be Fought Out in Seattle.

Evanville.—The searchlight of investigation is being turned on the activities of A. E. Woods, alias Dr. Percival Allen, who, under the name of Woods, on June 21 was married here to Mrs. Mabel Belle Parker, daughter of the Rev. A. W. Stephens, pastor of the Evanville Baptist church, with the arrest of the alleged bigamist and murderer in Los Angeles.

Woods, or Dr. Allen, as he is best known, will be turned over to authorities and probably will face trial at Seattle on a murder charge for the death of Miss Annie Danielson of Minneapolis, who died of poison on July 15, 1916. Investigation by police disclosed that, a few days before her death, the Minneapolis girl had gone through a mock marriage with Dr. Allen, who confessed at the time that he had duped the woman. As a result of his confession, Allen was held on a statutory charge. He admitted he wasn't married to Miss Danielson and had a wife in Los Angeles.

Body Examined.
Nothing suspicious was found in the analysis of the stomach contents at the time of the woman's death, Dr. Allen having told the attending physician that his wife died of consumption. She was buried at her old home at Gowrie, Ill., but the body was exhumed and brought to Minneapolis, where examination by Dr. John O. Hart and Dr. George Frankfort showed strychnine in the body. The investigation was made at the institution of Lieut. Wilford Danielson of (Continued on page 5)

LOCAL HARD COAL TO GO UP HIGHER

Advance at the Mines Made and Buyer Will Have to Pay.
Increase in the price of domestic anthracite coal in Janesville, which has been between 75 cents and a dollar per ton, may be expected in the near future, James P. Hild, president of the Pifford Lumber company, said Monday.

Figures recently announced by the United States Coal commission, quoting hard coal costs P. O. B. dealers, show a sharp increase. Anthracite is sold at the mines on the basis of the gross ton of 2,240 pounds. Prices and freights shown are those reported by dealers on contracts for delivery of coal direct from mines. It is impossible in many cases to state which are gross and which net ton prices. Most of the anthracite received in Janesville is shipped from Lake docks or direct from mines. For violating his parole by making an alleged sale of liquor to a farmer, Edward Olson, town of Fulton town, must serve 18 months in the state reformatory at Green Bay, Judge H. L. Maxfield said Monday, following an examination of witnesses conducted by District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie.

WITH THE FARMERS

Farming Getting Better and Better, Declares Bennett

That the farming business is getting better and better every day, is the statement made by C. C. Bennett, Denver, president of the Western Securities investment company, in a Colorado newspaper recently. Mr. Bennett is a former Janesville man. He is also a member of the board of governors of the National Farm Mortgage Bankers' association.

"Any farmer," said Mr. Bennett, "who uses judgment in diversifying the crop, works hard and takes as good care of his business as a merchant or manufacturer, is prosperous."

A good index of the farm business is the way that mortgages are being cared for. Practically all that we hold, covering 5,000 entries and representing over $15,000,000, are most promptly paid as to interest and principal. Farmers are buying fewer expensive devices and expending more upon hard work. They are sticking closer to business. They are diversifying their crops, raising more hogs and reducing waste. All these things are making them more prosperous. Wheat is a very small factor."

DAIRY DELEGATES VISIT WISCONSIN

Madison.—The second group of foreign delegates to the World's Dairy Congress to be held in the east early in October will visit dairy sections of Wisconsin September 12 to 21.

Arriving in Milwaukee on the morning of the 13th the delegation will inspect the cream city's noted dairymen and their motor through the dairy districts of Milwaukee and Waukesha counties to Oconomowoc. There they will visit a condenser, a certified milk plant and look over several of the outstanding Holstein herds.

Touring north the party will have an opportunity to view many smaller farms. Their next stop will be at Plymouth where cheese storing warehouses will be visited. Fond du Lac will play host to the foreign dairymen the following day. Several Guernsey herds will be inspected and the delegates will also see American cheese in the process of manufacture. Port Atkinson will claim the visitors on the afternoon of September 20.

The final day of the visit in this state will find them at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture and Experiment station. Here they will be shown many phases of work along agricultural lines which is being carried on at the Badger farm school. Leaving Wisconsin they will next visit agricultural centers in Minnesota.

SUCCESS TO FOLLOW FAITH IN FARMING

Cynthiana, Ind.—The descendants of city-drawn farmer boys are largely for ever under bondage to city walls and asphalt. That is the answer to the question "to farm or not to farm" put to E. P. Welborn, one of the leading farmers of Posey county. Welborn is looking with concern upon present national and international social unrest. He believes that boys who love the farm and who are hostile because of the present low price area will find the present period of depression near its end by the time they have finished schooling.

Welborn graduated from the Wisconsin Short Course in agriculture and for a time assisted R. A. Moore of the Field Crops Staff of the Wisconsin institution. "Agriculture has had its bad periods before," says Welborn, "and perhaps will have them again, but it has survived and those who have stood courageously and as cheerfully as possible have been blessed."

BADGER CHEESE TO BE EXHIBITED AT VARIOUS SHOWS

Madison.—Badger cheese makers are looking forward to several events this fall and winter which will give them opportunity to test the merits of their products in competition with other cheese manufacturers.

Early in October the National Dairy Exposition at Syracuse, New York, will attract some Badger cheese men. Never before have so many prizes been put up for the quality cheese exhibits. County fair exhibits and local scoring contests have been unusually numerous this year and many good men in the various communities have competed in the "show things" of the cheese industry.

Wisconsin Meeting.

Late October will find central Wisconsin cheese makers, butter makers and dairymen gathered at Neillville for a big convocation. Upwards of one thousand dollars will be expended October 24-26 for awards for the encouragement of cheese industry throughout central Wisconsin according to Miss Linda C. Bruhn, secretary of the organization.

The Wisconsin Cheese Makers will gather for their thirty-second annual meeting in Milwaukee January 10 and 11, 1914. This meeting will be a grand round-up for the cheese men of the state. J. L. Samuels at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, who is secretary of the state organization, announces a premium list of over 800 prizes aggregating several thousand dollars in value.

The Southern Wisconsin Cheese Makers and Dairymen's association will attract many exhibits of Swiss, brick and Limburger at their annual meeting at Monroe during this next winter. A substantial prize list is in the making for this affair.

Show at National.

Plans are afoot to have all of the Wisconsin cheese which is to be exhibited at the National Dairy Exposition at Syracuse, New York, assembled for shipment at the dairy school of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

The shipments will be pooled here and sent on in a single lot. The object of this move is to reduce the expense to the individual cheese makers.

Cheese makers who are planning to join the shipping pool should have their products in not later than Monday, September 17. Exhibitors shipping direct to the exposition are hearing in mind that the dead line for entries is set for Saturday noon, September 22.

NOTED BREEDER DIES.

R. B. Ogilvie, for many years secretary of the American Clydesdale association, died at his Chicago home last week. Funeral services were held in Chicago Saturday.

$1,000 DAMAGE IN TREASURY.

Washington.—Fire broke out in the treasury building, causing about $1,000 damage.

BOOM PINCHOT AS COOLIDGE MATE

Pennsylvania's Success in Ending Coal War Held Notable Feat.

Copyright, 1913, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington.—Gifford Pinchot, governor of Pennsylvania, for vice president of the United States and the Republican ticket with President Coolidge, is a running-mate should be chosen with an appeal to the so-called progressive elements in the republican party.

Gifford Pinchot was one of the original Roosevelt progressives. His controversy with Secretary of the Interior Ballinger of the Taft administration over the conservation of natural resources stirred up the entire west to Governor Pinchot. It is reasoned, would balance the republican ticket nicely.

With the formation of a Janesville committee, a mail campaign is being conducted here to obtain memberships for the Wisconsin Branch National Labor committee to give the national committee the support and practical help that a fund raised by Wisconsin citizens will mean.

Members of the local committee are: Mrs. Percy Munger, Mrs. Frank C. Holt, Judge C. L. Field, Mrs. C. A. Sanborn, L. J. Bennett, James Doran, Bernard Palmer, Mrs. O. W. Alton, E. S. Haggart, Mrs. John Fitzgerald, Miss Mary Barker and Mrs. T. W. West.

Pointing out that more than 1,000,000 children between 14 and 16 leave school every year to go to work, the committee tells how two attempts of the federal government to extend its protection to child laborers by indirect measures have been declared unconstitutional by the U. S. supreme court. It now appears, says the committee, that a constitutional amendment is necessary, but this has been laid over until the next session of congress.

Jews to Observe Yom Kippur Soon

Jews of Janesville will join with those throughout the world in the observance of the Day of Atonement, Yom Kippur, from sunset Wednesday, Sept. 10, to sunset Thursday, Sept. 11. This is regarded by all Jews as the holiest day in the calendar of the synagogue. On this day the most poignant and awe-inspiring liturgies and prayers are recited. No other holy day of the synagogue has been endowed with quite such significance and solemnity.

On this Day of Atonement each individual leads to atone God in true humility, imploring his pardon for sin, promising to amend his ways and make himself worthier as man and citizen.

A feature of the day is its memorial service. This service reminds the worshipper that while death awaits each one such death is not the end of all existence and is therefore not to be feared. Immortal life has been implanted within everyone and all who contribute to the good of humanity and thus hasten the advent of the Kingdom of God are not forgotten. Thus the living immortalize the dead by emulating their noble deeds.

Jews to Observe Yom Kippur Soon

Jews of Janesville will join with those throughout the world in the observance of the Day of Atonement, Yom Kippur, from sunset Wednesday, Sept. 10, to sunset Thursday, Sept. 11. This is regarded by all Jews as the holiest day in the calendar of the synagogue. On this day the most poignant and awe-inspiring liturgies and prayers are recited. No other holy day of the synagogue has been endowed with quite such significance and solemnity.

On this Day of Atonement each individual leads to atone God in true humility, imploring his pardon for sin, promising to amend his ways and make himself worthier as man and citizen.

A feature of the day is its memorial service. This service reminds the worshipper that while death awaits each one such death is not the end of all existence and is therefore not to be feared. Immortal life has been implanted within everyone and all who contribute to the good of humanity and thus hasten the advent of the Kingdom of God are not forgotten. Thus the living immortalize the dead by emulating their noble deeds.

Anxiety Felt for Elkhorn Woman on Way to Korea

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Elkhorn.—General sympathy is extended to Dr. and Mrs. Fred Taylor in their anxiety over the whereabouts of their daughter, Phyllis, who was married in June to Rev. Bery Adams, and sailed in August for Korea, as missionaries under Presbyterian board.

Dr. Taylor received a telegram Friday that the steamer President Lincoln had docked at Yokohama, Aug. 28th, and the missionaries were to go overland to Korea. Relatives and friends continue to hope that all got safely out of the danger zone and that later cables will be received to this effect.

MINERS, OPERATORS EQUALLY TO BLAME FOR COAL TROUBLES

has not been freely and voluntarily entered into.

1. The right of a man to work when, where, for whom and under what conditions and at what wage he chooses, so long as he elects to assert his individual right, must never be interfered with, and the state must furnish him protection and peace while he exercises this right.

2. In a free government men have a right to combine themselves together into organizations for collective bargaining with reference to terms and conditions of work which they will work; they must exercise this right without force and intimidation, and must not interfere with the right of the man to work for whom he chooses individually.

3. Society has a right to fix a limitation beyond which it will not permit either these duties or the right of organization to go.

4. There is an implied duty upon corporations to pay the highest of its employees who is able-bodied, willing and competent, and who gives an honest day's work, sufficient wage to enable that person and his family to live in accordance with the standards of American life, and to pay in addition thereto for skill and experience.

5. The general public has a right to demand of its government that it shall not freeze in the midst of an abundance of coal, unless capital and labor adopt methods that will furnish to the public coal when needed, an outraged public sentiment will furnish the supply by either the army or the penitentiary.

6. When contracts have been voluntarily entered into, the industry itself should provide boards of arbitration, both local and appellate, to speedily dispose of disputes in accordance with the terms of the contract and the principles herein set out.

Present Coal Situation

While the report dealt with the coal industry generally, the commission gave particular attention to the present situation. Most of the industrial friction which has operated to stop the machinery of production, and frequently resulted in violence and bloodshed, the Commission ascribed to the following basic causes:

Disputes as to what are proper

Early known as the civil rights of American citizens.

Practical breach of these rights in the industry, even when theoretically acknowledged.

Inappropriate application to present conditions of principles considered under totally different economic conditions.

Attitude of public opinion produced by ancient grievances.

Law administration of the law induced through fear, favor, affection, malice, hatred, or ill-will.

Unwise, even though lawful interference of strangers in local conditions.

The effect of universal suffrage upon law administration.

"There is no intellectual dispute," the Commission reported, "touching the academic proposition of the right of a man to run an open shop, nor of the right of men to organize for the purposes of collective bargaining."

Doubt Criminal Intent

"The Commission does not find, notwithstanding many unfortunate occurrences, unlawful acts and unwise statements that it is or has been the ultimate object of the United Mine Workers of America to unionize all the mines by force if necessary. Upon the other hand, it does not find, regardless of unfortunate statements and unlawful conduct, that it is the fixed purpose of non-union operators to destroy the United Mine Workers. The Commission chooses rather to give those who are from the moral standpoint, whatever it may be from the legal standpoint, charged with violation of the law, the benefit of the doubt as to criminal intent."

Analysis of any single unlawful act with a view to fixing responsibility would not serve, the Commission said, to give any justification "save as such justification could be found in the common and ordinary passion of mankind, for the other side to have met force with force, to have fought fire with fire."

The disorders at Herrin were cited as a case in point. "Without attempting to fix responsibility, the Commission found the fatal outbreak at the plant of the Southern Illinois Coal Company to have been fostered by the favored state of local public opinion, which had developed into a 'class hatred.'"

"There is no doubt that when the promoter started to operate this mine in defiance of the union, he was inviting mob violence and firing with death," the report said. "He knew it and prepared to meet it. Those in the mob undoubtedly believed it was an attempt to return to old conditions before the mines had been unionized."

"There were, of course, fatal omissions of duty on the part of public officials, and neither the officials nor the public wanted troops to protect the operator in his union-destroying operations. It might have been stopped by the sheriff, by the officers of the miners' union, by public sentiment, but all were for the union and all believed that an attempt was being made to destroy it."

The Psychology of Herrin

that the tragedy might have been prevented, it also finds that the union of the mine and the public officials were antipathetic and that it would happen.

They all believed that the non-union miners would be kicked out of the country and that this would end it. In a family row the Commission, of course, cannot say what might have been the result if public opinion had waited until the courts had either attempted or refused to discharge their duty. But the whole economic life of the country puts it beyond peradventure that when an indiscriminate assault on the union and the people of the county was made, the punishment of anybody impossible in that county.

"Herrin Audacity"

"This statement, unfortunately, cannot end there. Clothed with all the charitable excuses above set out, these furnish no justification for the brazen audacity with which subordinate officials and members of the United Mine Workers of America defended the crime and the criminals. That they were espousing the cause and defending the lawbreakers is further shown to the Commission by the fact that they have not been uniformly working into a community, hiring a hall, and giving that community a lecture on what its rights and duties are. They are seeking to furnish deputy sheriffs, policemen, or other public officials not paid out of the public treasury. The state and local government has not placed to the level of the average idea of justice in America which has not both the will and the power to preserve the life and the property of its citizens."

"The Commission condemns equally that lax local government which has seemed to render it necessary for the owner of property to police it at his own expense and in the event of strikes to bring in professional strike breakers, who are frequently better gunmen than they are laborers, and the exercise of that right which inherently belongs to an American citizen, namely, that of a stranger voluntarily walking into a community, hiring a hall, and giving that community a lecture on what its rights and duties are. something better for the future than the mere fixing of responsibility for past violations. It does not minimize the gravity of all sorts of crimes which have taken place. It cannot too strongly condemn the custom of permitting either operators or miners to furnish deputy sheriffs, policemen, or other public officials not paid out of the public treasury. The state and local government has not placed to the level of the average idea of justice in America which has not both the will and the power to preserve the life and the property of its citizens."

AT THE BEVERLY
Gloria Swanson's latest picture at the Beverly, "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," is a really Swansonish in that it is a marvelous beauty and style show. The star appears in gowns after gowns of marvellous style and fit, and keeps the women in the audience breathless. Here, Gloria even shows them that she has bobbed hair, and how to arrange it into one of her marvellous coiffures.

But for acting, Miss Swanson does not take the place she does as a style model. She has the ability to act, however, as was shown in "The Impossible Mrs. Belov," and perhaps it is the story that gives her an opportunity to show her acting.

It is of the impoverished girl of title who marries money, only to find that her husband has been seven times married and seven times divorced. She determines to divorce him, too, but after committing some act which she later regrets, she discovers she loves the man.

With such gowns as are worn, and with scene after scene of elaborate society life, the picture will please a

SUPREME COURT TO RULE ON POOL

Fate of Tobacco Growers' Organization Up to High Tribunal.

The fate of the Northern Wisconsin Co-operative Tobacco pool depends upon the decision in a suit to be heard in the Wisconsin supreme court, starting Saturday, Sept. 22. The ruling will come on an appeal by the Rev. P. F. Case, the circuit court judge, from the decision of the circuit court judge, Edgar W. Werner, granting the pool a permanent injunction restraining the tobacco growers from interfering with the five-year contract. The membership books to the pool will close for the 1913 crop on Oct. 1, as a result of a ruling made by the directors. New pool members are being sought in the tobacco growing belt of the state. Notices have been sent out by the pool to growers who are alleged to have violated their contracts, that unless settlement is made, suit will be started to enforce the contract. A penalty of 5 cents a pound for all tobacco under contract in the pool that was sold out of the pool is being enforced. The tobacco growers' organization, however, claims that the pool is a monopoly and that it is a violation of the anti-trust laws. The pool is a voluntary association of growers who have agreed to sell their tobacco through the pool. The pool is a monopoly in the sense that it is the only organization of its kind in the state. # Eclipse of Sun Is Seen in Part

If a premature darkness makes it hard to read this paper, it is because one of the world's wonders is between the earth and the sun, and is causing an eclipse, which in parts of America is total, making certain sections, especially California and Florida, so dark that the stars are out. The eclipse started at 2:22 p. m. in Janesville and was scheduled to last until 4:24, with its greatest darkness at 3:38 p. m. It picked a nice day and many, having read about the strange thing that occurs in Florida, and that in ancient times was taken as a symbol of the gods' wrath and threw tribes into great fear, had smoked glasses ready for the event. High school was out early and pupils had been dismissed when the greatest darkness came and physics classes were talking about the phenomenon Tuesday.

All the boats filled with refugees who camped out in the open and waited, with typical Oriental stoicism, for what dire events might next transpire. Food as first seemed to be plentiful. But in only a few hours the hunger-terror came to add to the sufferings. Also water began to grow scarce and soon it was being rationed out. In the midst of the holocaust there assembly was little disorder. The authorities, shocked and stunned as they were, immediately took things in hand and in a short while soldiers augmented the police in patrolling the stricken districts. The hungry thousands were cheered by the announcement that in the morning there would be rations of rice, as ships of supplies were on their way from Osaka and other ports. The thousands of unfortunates gasped and died in the flames. Other districts, while better situated to withstand the shock of fire were unable to escape altogether, and the homes of the rich, in many instances, went down in smoldering ruins.

At one time, from the American embassy, the city seemed to be encircled by flames. This was virtually the case, although many fires were extinguished with little difficulty.

While the district to the north, which includes the Chinese embassy, seemed to be in flames, so confident was the Chinese ambassador that his building would escape that he invited many fleeing people to take refuge there. However, toward midnight there came a change in the wind, and the flames swept the embassy and official residences so rapidly that there was no time to save the records.

In the Kanda district, which is the students' quarter of Tokio, the fire spread with great rapidity. And directly east, where seven miles of shops form the Ueno and Shimabashi districts, the flames came to be on general roaring carnage. The Shinjoh railway station, which is the starting point of the Tokaido railway, was one of the first destroyed. It was of historic interest, having been constructed nearly 50 years ago.

Red Cross Hospital Burns. In this district the fire burned furiously along a main mile wide. In the district to the south, Shiba also took fire and the Red Cross hospital was one of the first to be attacked by the flames. Other buildings were ablaze within a short time. The first estimates of the disaster were that 20,000 at least dead, and innumerable thousands injured. It was believed more than 2,000,000 were homeless, that Yokohama had been completely destroyed and three-fourths of Tokio laid waste.

Fond du Lac Man Tells Of Surprising Gains

"I could notice a big difference on my first bottle of Tanlac, and I don't believe I could feel any better than I do now," said S. F. Dyer, 1005 Wisconsin Ave., North Fond du Lac, Wis. "Nearly all last winter I felt weak and drabby and when spring broke I didn't feel fit for anything. My appetite left me, what little I ate soured on my stomach and made me miserable from gas bloating. I had dizzy headaches, felt lousy and when I got home from work I didn't even have energy for a spin. "I am on my third bottle of Tanlac now and am eating hearty, am rid of the sour stomach and gas and the headaches and dizziness. I get real pleasure from driving now. Tanlac has also rid me of constipation, of thirty-five years' standing. There's nothing too good I can say for Tanlac." Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold. Tanlac, Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere. —Advertisement.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY One of the sweetest pictures of the year. Frank Borzage, the man who made Humoresque, presents "CHILDREN OF DUST." As good as "Humoresque" or "Mighty Lark a Rose." Just played at the Chicago Theatre, and the management gives their opinion as the most pleasing picture of the season. "CHILDREN OF DUST" was booked at the Apollo for four days, but on account of being overcrowded with other pictures, will limit the showing to only two days, and hope you will attend it for I know you will enjoy it. I personally recommend both offerings, that is, "The Heart of Wetona" and "Grandma's Boy" together, and "Children of Dust" as 100% entertaining. Special School Children's Matinee at 4:15 on Wednesday, showing "CHILDREN OF DUST." Price 10c. I urge you to send your children to view this clean, refined, amusing and wholesome picture. Also 2-reel comedy and 1-reel educational film showing King Tut's Treasures. Prices for both above shows: Matinees, 10-25c. Evenings, 15-35c.

PIERSON OFFERED PASTORATE IN EAST

Baptist Rector, Here 7 Years, May Go to Church in Pittsburgh Suburb.

An offer has been made to the Rev. Raymond G. Pierson, pastor of the Baptist church here for the past seven years, to become pastor of the Eastern Baptist church in Pittsburgh, Pa. Mr. Pierson is considering the offer and at a meeting of the advisory committee of the local church Sunday afternoon, presented the proposition. While he has made no definite decision, he feels that when the official call comes from the eastern church, he will accept it.

The Rev. Mr. Pierson came here in 1911 from Grand Forks, N. D., where he had had a pastorate for two years. Before that he had been in Milwaukee at a Baptist church for eight years. He is a graduate of Bucknell college, Pa. The church here, when its pastor resigned to enter another field, appealed to Bucknell college officials, who referred the church to the Rev. Mr. Pierson. The call came a few weeks ago and Mr. Pierson visited the church and preached the sermon there a week ago Sunday.

The church is a thriving one in a suburb of Pittsburgh. It has a membership of 600 which is double that it had two years ago, and in a few weeks will have 1,000 members. The salary offered Mr. Pierson is considerably larger than that he receives here, and sentiment is strong in favor of his going. The church here would not like to lose a pastor of Mr. Pierson's type, he would not be retained as he could better himself in Pittsburgh.

In addition to his church activities, Mr. Pierson has been active about town, being especially prominent in the Wisconsin club, he being an officer of the Wisconsin-Upper Michigan district.

OBITUARY

Frederick E. Niles, Menominee.
Word has been received in this city of the sudden death of F. E. Niles, Menominee, brother of Mrs. Sadie E. Jones, Janesville. Mr. Niles was a resident of Janesville. Mr. Niles died of heart failure in a hotel at Augusta, Wis.

Mr. E. Niles was born Feb. 11, 1855, near Spring Valley Corners, the son of John B. and Eliza A. Niles, and a step son of S. Green, early pioneers of Rock county.

He was married Feb. 16, 1875, to Mary Niles, who died two years later in an airplane accident at Medford last week. He was survived by his wife, Mrs. G. B. Murdock, Brodhead, and W. G. Niles of the state of Washington. He is survived by his wife, children and grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held from the home in Menominee, Wis., at 10 o'clock, Thursday, Sept. 13, at 1230 in Greenwood cemetery. The services will be conducted by the Masonic lodge.

Funeral of Irving Grove.
Funeral services for Irving W. Grove, 27, Janesville, steeped in an airplane accident at Medford last week, will be held at the home of his mother, Mrs. R. L. Barnes, Cristobal, Panama Canal, who is expected to arrive in Janesville in about two weeks.

A message was received Saturday by Carl Diehl, Janesville, from Mrs. Barnes, ordering him to hold the body until her arrival in the city. If it is possible to make good boat connections, she may arrive in Janesville in 10 days.

The body was brought back to the city Saturday by Mr. Diehl and Coroner Lynn Whaley, and was taken to the Whaley undertaking parlors. A body was a passenger in the exhibition plane at the Taylor county fair grounds, according to Mr. Diehl. The plane had taken up numerous other passengers before Mr. Diehl's plane ascended. The pilot, C. R. Rhodes, St. Paul, was not as seriously injured as was first reported, receiving only severe bruises.

William Conway, La Prairie.
Funeral services for William Conway, La Prairie, who was fatally injured Saturday morning when drunk driving an automobile, will be held at 3 p. m. Tuesday from the home.

The Rev. T. F. Case, Methodist church, will officiate and burial will take place in the Emerald Grove cemetery.

William Conway was born March 9, 1852, in County Antrim, Ireland. He was married in 1880 to Miss Sarah Stone, the couple coming to America the following year. For a short time they lived in Rock Prairie but settled permanently in La Prairie, which has since been the Conway home. Mrs. Conway died April 22, 1922.

Mr. Conway is survived by six sons and one daughter. They are: John, James, Robert, Hugh and George, this city, and La Prairie, and Mrs. N. C. Howard, La Prairie, and W. F. Conway, Wisconsin Rapids.

Two brothers, John Conway, Saksburg, Pa., and James Conway, Port Glasgow, Scotland, and one sister, Mrs. James Dinwoodie, Canton, O., also survive.

Mr. Conway was a member of the Methodist church, this city.

Charles M. Williams, Albion.

The United States navy, a cousin of the dead woman.

Sought for Six Years.
Dr. Allen, escaped from the county jail at Seattle in December and was captured a month later at San Bernardino, Cal. The capture was made by a constable at Hanoi, Cal., a little village. Allen had worked in various towns, principally as a barber. He returned to the jail at Seattle, his confinement was of but a month's duration, and again he escaped, this time to remain free for six years, while the police and federal agents of the nation sought him in many parts of the United States and in British Columbia.

10 Days in Evansville.
Mrs. Parker became widowed five years ago through the death of her husband, Frank Parker. They lived in Milwaukee and her son was born, who lives with the mother. Mrs. Parker lived in Evansville and Minneapolis. She is well known in Evansville, being school clerk for two years during the term of Supt. J. F. Wade.

Little Known of Man.
Little is known of "Mr. Woods" in Evansville, where since Saturday he has been the subject of almost all conversation on the streets. Mrs. Parker Woods was one of the most respected women of Evansville during her residence in that city. Her first husband was a victim of the influenza epidemic and was in the service. Mrs. Parker came to Evansville and was employed as a stenographer by the Wood Butler company and served as school clerk during the 1921-1922 school year. She went to Minneapolis in June, 1922, and remained there until her return the summer.

Woods Came to Evansville June 13 and the following day Mrs. Parker and Woods went to Chicago, returning the 21st when they were married by the Rev. Mr. Stephens. She remained a week, staying at the Stephens home and then left and has not been back.

Suspicious Aroused.
Suspicious of the Rev. Mr. Stephens and his daughter were aroused when Mrs. Parker-Woods discovered a letter from another woman after her husband had left. She kept up her correspondence with him and a month later was visited in Evansville by Mrs. A. E. Reed, Des Moines, Ia., who remained here for two or three days. Mrs. Woods and Mrs. Reed became convinced that Mr. Woods and Mr. Reed were the same man. Mrs. Reed had been married but a month prior to the marriage of Mrs. Parker.

On Girl's Information.
Miss Ellen Fenz said to be a friend of Mrs. Parker-Woods, residing at Rochester, Minn., took action when Mr. Woods, alias Allen, courted her and federal authorities on her information arrested the man in Los Angeles.

But two or three hours before Chief Gilman called up to tell of his information from Los Angeles, Mrs. Parker-Woods had left on a train for Minneapolis.

The Rev. Mr. Stephens, while sorry to have his name and that of his daughter brought into the public eye, is desirous of seeing justice meted out.

On the marriage certificate in the Rock county clerk's office, the man gives his name as Alvin B. Woods, home address Chicago, and his age as 42. Mrs. Parker gave her age as 40.

Names of Many Women.
That Woods was a past master in the art of wooing and matrimony is shown, Los Angeles police say, by the letters found in his possession. One letter offered him $15,000 if he would marry the writer. He is said by police to have had a regular form filled by his wife, children and grandchildren.

I WOULD sell my old tires, tubes, etc. This would help me to buy new accessories. I would have to have a place to keep my car. If I owned a garage, I might have room enough for another car. So I would rent this space. If I didn't have a garage of my own, I would rent space in some other private garage. I might want a chauffeur. Maybe I'd just want someone to wash my car or keep it oiled. Whatever I wanted wouldn't make much difference, because I could get it with Janesville Gazette Want Ads. They would sell my old tires, rent my garage, rent me a garage, find me a chauffeur and all the rest. They'd even sell my car when I wanted a new one.

The Municipal Court Investigating Committee.

Perhaps the public finds it hard to understand
just why a committee of laymen who have no power under law or standing in the courts under any statute should be called upon to pass upon evidence in the recent investigation of the municipal court by itself. It seems to add comedy to farce.

A powerless committee can certainly add nothing to what has been done. It might be possible to learn more were an investigation to be held by a lawfully constituted tribunal with powers
clearly defined—the attorney general for instance.

The eclipse of the sun seen in California is nothing to the eclipse of H. Johnson also visible in California.

Bigger Than the Government.

The verdict of the United States Coal Commission in its conclusion of the report published in another column of the Gazette today, will receive the hearty endorsement of the public.
There is no room in this country for a combination of either miners or operators which will be bigger than the union of states. Over and above all is government, and defiance of the public is defiance of the constituted authority vested
in the public and by them transferred for execution to its representatives.

The coal strike is settled but the public will pay for it with an added 75 cents and a dollar
a ton in price; this too when the figures show that the operators have made more money than ever at the present price. It was easy for the operators to accept a raise in wages and make the people pay for it. These other matters, not yet arranged, are merely a part of the give and take of the miners and operators in handling union affairs and mining details. The advantage in a settlement comes in the news that anthracite will be mined and a supply will be available.
But the movement for substitutes will go on and thousands of homes wherein hard coal has been burned, will find some other fuel supply to take its place. Monopoly of the anthracite coal vested in a few Pennsylvania operators has reached such a point that miners and operators are larger than government and the public pays for the authority of the monopoly.

Many a man who has plenty of time has tried to beat a locomotive with an auto only to start on a journey lasting through eternity.

Settled Outside of Court

Greece has accepted the terms of Italy as in a measure revised by the council of Ambassadors, for the Janina assassinations. The League of Nations has been entirely sidetracked and its impotency is once more emphasized. The ambassadors meant power of a kind that Italy understood and Greece appreciated. That the league, with its interminable red tape and questioned interpretations of its covenants, would have taken months to have come to a final decision, was an estoppel to a settlement through that machinery.
Italy makes no reparations for the cold blooded murder of the noncombatants at Corfu, a question to give trouble to the allies. There are also other questions in which both Greece and Italy are concerned in reference to the Balkans and Jugo-Slavia has a number of points to be settled,
but the likelihood of these nations referring any of them to the League of Nations is far remote since the fiasco just completed following Greek appeal to that selfsame league.

It would be a fine campaign in 1924 if the republican candidate were Calvin Coolidge and Oscar Underwood should be the democratic candidate.

The Hen Pays Dividends.

In these trying times for the farmer the best asset is the laying hen. She is the cash producer of the farm. She will pay the interest on the loans if she is given a chance and buy the staples of the grocery store. Missouri poultry products are more valuable than the gold and silver mined in Colorado. When grain is cheap the hen pays the biggest dividends of anything the farmer can produce. A hundred hens on every farm, big and little, in the state of Wisconsin, would add an immense sum to the wealth of the state. Multiply that number by all the farm will feed and nothing else pays so well in proportion to the investment. It is time we added poultry to other live stock as a productive investment in Wisconsin.

FASCISTI SAVE MONEY

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—The Fascisti of Italy have as active a talent for getting things done in the world of finance as in political affairs, according to a report which has just come to the attention of American financial authorities. The report covers the finances of the Fascisti government and was prepared by Alberto de Stefani, the minister of finance in Premier Mussolini's cabinet.

The point of outstanding interest in the recital of how Italian finances have prospered under the Blackshirts is that the burden of the income tax has become equitably distributed. In the old days before the war and even during the war it was charged that, either through bad law or inefficient enforcement, many persons were able to escape the income tax. This was one of the first weak points in Italian affairs which was attacked by the Fascisti government when it came into power. At the time of the succession of the Fascisti there were but 600,000 persons paying income tax in the kingdom of Italy. This number has now increased to 1,215,000 persons.

The minister of finance has appointed what he terms a financial police. Presumably these are officials somewhat similar to the American collectors of internal revenue and revenue agents.
These officials are diligent in seeking out delinquent taxpayers and evaders of taxation. The doubling of the number of persons on whom the burden of tax will fall is expected to permit of a reduction in tax rates and still bring in a revenue greater than what was formerly collected.

Another reform made by the Fascisti government's financial regime is the strengthening of the central taxing authorities. Like the United States, Italy has had a dual system of taxation;
one federal, for the whole country and one provincial, like our state taxes. The federal taxes have been made dominant and they must have preference over the provincial taxes. Care has been taken to prevent any serious interference between the rights of the kingdom and the rights of the tributary provinces, just as a nice balance is preserved between federal and state rights in the United States.

Taxes have been greatly simplified by the Fascisti regime. In the former administration, there were thirteen different kinds of taxes. The Fascisti administration has cut these to four: a land tax, a buildings tax, an income tax and a sales tax or tax on transactions as it is called.
General care has been exercised to avoid laying taxes which would have the effect of increasing the price of necessary foodstuffs, such as bread and wine.

One of Italy's sore spots has been the railway deficit. The Italian railways are under government ownership and operation and have been accumulating annual deficits for some time. Last year the railway deficit was 754,000,000 lire.
During the fiscal year 1920-21 the Fascisti government provides for reducing this to 374,000,000 lire, a decrease of 380,000,000 lire. This improvement is expected to be announced in a few months, as rapid progress has been made toward it. One hundred and eighty million lire has been saved in operating expenditures and 100,000,000 lire has been added to the railway receipts.

The financial program for the next fiscal year calls for a further reduction of 264,000,000 lire in the railway deficit and the following year for a complete wiping out of this item. Once on the credit side of the ledger, the Fascisti expect to reduce rates drastically. Whether this plan will prove successful must remain a matter of conjecture until the time comes but the report shows that good progress has been made so far.

The Fascisti financial administration has been as drastic and revolutionary in many respects as the political administration. Expenditures which the previous governments made have been discarded while other policies have been embarked upon which are wholly new. In general, however, there has been more saving of funds resulting from what has been abandoned than from the new activities engaged in.

Some of the notable savings include an annual saving of 285,000,000 lire by the abolition of the royal guard; 221,000,000 lire has been saved on public works; 152,000,000 lire in the pruning of military expenses; 101,000,000 lire in reforms in the administration and operation of the postal, telegraph and telephone services; 75,000,000 lire in the customs services and varying lesser amounts in the home office, the colonial office and other branches of the civil establishment. A total saving of 1,536,000,000 lire is claimed in the report.

Against these savings must be set new expenses arising from the undertaking of programs to which the Fascisti were pledged when they seized the reins of government in their famous bloodless revolution—the dramatic march of the Black-shirts on Rome.

The principal item is one of 750,000,000 lire for the prompt payment of war damages. As this sum is to be financed by the sale of bonds and not taken directly from the treasury, the finance minister declares that only the sum necessary to pay interest on the amount, 76,000,000 lire, should be charged up as a new expenditure. Seventy-four million has been added to strengthen the air service of the army and 102,000,000 for a ship-subsidy such as former President Harding tried to have congress enact for the American merchant marine.

When all the budget cuts made by Fascisti are taken into consideration and when it is set the total of the new expenditures, a net reduction in the government expense of nearly half a billion lire still remains, so the report claims that the new revolutionary regime is doing its job in a creditable manner and bringing Italy back toward solvency.

The Fascisti financial regime recognizes the war debt owed to the United States and has made no plea for cancellations such as has been made by France. However, the Fascisti leaders say they believe Italy should be accorded Italy in the funding of the debt, equally favorable to those accorded Great Britain. To such a proposal, Chairman Mellon and the World War Foreign Debt Funding commission have acceded.

How long the revolutionary Fascisti government will stand can not be predicted with any measure of safety but American officials see no reason why it should not continue to be successful in the light of the competent management of the finances which the report just received reveals.

Such a report is of special interest in this country now because this winter negotiations will be commenced on the funding of the Italian debt to
the United States.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE SPIRIT.
Hold fast and falter not,
Live out your time;
Nor just nor right,
Nor failure's bitter toll
Can scar the soul.

What matters is not loss
Which men deplore,
The sting of bullets sore
Nor hunger unappeased,
But is God pleased?

Serve not your pride,
That way lies shame,
Bear it you must men's blame
But, high above the crowd,
Let God be proud.

Not what you've won shall count
In life's strange race;
The humblest post or place
May see its hero crowned,
Whom fame had never found.

Glory and hurt are kin,
Forgotten with the years,
Vanish both smiles and tears;
Be you not turned aside,
God knows what you have tried.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON

WE DO NOT FURNISH BLUEPRINTS.
"We was knocked unconscious and several pieces of steel entered his head, but he will recover grocery store. He said he did it because he was hungry."—From The New York Evening Mail.

Forty or fifty readers have written to us asking us to explain the above item. We do not know why he should have recovered a grocery store or why having steel in his head should relieve his hunger. In fact we know nothing about it. The readers must use their own judgment.

We have always noticed that the birds who yell the loudest about "hard times" are the same ones who never have a nickel during soft times.

Who's Who Today

DR. RUDOLPH HILFERDING.
The man behind the scenes has long been the title given Dr. Rudolph Hilferding, now minister of finance in the new German government in Germany. Hilferding's power has been felt in Germany's political life since early in the present time he has not been prominent in public office or parliamentary debates.

Hilferding is not yet fifty,
although he is said to be of a matured man. He is rated a self-made man and is not wealthy. He is an Austrian, a Jew, a naturalized German citizen.

He was born in Vienna,
the son of a physician. He studied to be a doctor. He was in his way to Berlin
and economics when as young as 8 years old, his acquaintances say. Years ago
he drew interest with a book
"Das Finanzkapital."

He early became a member of the socialist democratic party in Austria and learned the fine points of the game under Max Adler, leader of that party. He continued to practice medicine, however, and at the start of the war served as an army doctor in the Austrian army.

Dr. Hilferding went to Berlin shortly after the revolution. When the independent and social democrats formed a coalition and took over the government, Hilferding was asked to join the cabinet but he refused to remain and out of the Stresemann cabinet was formed.

He accompanied Chancellor Wirth and Walter Rathenau to the Geneva conference a year ago and then became professor of politics and economics in the new school of politics at Berlin.

HISTORY OF TODAY

TODAY'S EVENTS.

The Jewish New Year begins at sunset tonight.
The Prince of Wales is due to arrive at Quebec
today on his way to visit his father-in-law, the Governor General. The election of the Primary will be held in Maryland today for the nomination of candidates for Governor and other officers in the State of Maryland.
Financiers and wool growers of the west and middle west are to confer in Chicago today on plans to bring about the orderly marketing of wool on a much larger scale than heretofore has been attempted. Under the plans proposed Chicago would become the greater wool marketing center in the world.

Today's eclipse of the sun will be visible as a total eclipse in Southern California and as a partial eclipse over a large part of North America. It will be the first total eclipse of the sun that has been visible in the United States since 1918 and will be the last until 1925.

TODAY'S ANNIVERSARIES.
1867.—Elihu Howe's patent for a sewing machine expired. He is said to have realized about 32,000,000 from it.

1881.—Two human lives were lost when the village of Elm, in Switzerland, was overwhelmed by a landslide.

1887.—The British gunboat, Asp, with a crew of 80 men, left Singapore and was never heard from again.

A general strike was declared by the Irish Free
State workmen.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS.

Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, the new president of the

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

Sept. 10, 1878.—The entire corn and tobacco
crop of the county, if not of the entire northwest, was destroyed by frost last night and the night before. In the county, from one-quarter to one-half of the tobacco crop had been harvested, but not more than one-quarter of the corn crop was thus saved.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Sept. 10, 1893.—Robert and James Lillburn, Emerald Grove road, won several prizes at the World's fair on their ponies. Two thieves are now in jail in Monroe after an escapade in which they escaped from a sheriff's posse, held up a number of people and escaped on bicycles. They were finally caught by two constables.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Sept. 10, 1903.—Senator Whitehead has thrown another bomb into the La Follette faction and next week at Beloit will answer the charges of La Follette made there on Labor day. He invites the unions especially to be present. Two hundred Odd Fellows from the state, many from Janesville, had an outing at Stoughton yesterday.

TEN YEARS AGO

Sept. 10, 1913.—First arrests in the city-wide movement to clean the city of houses of assignment and those who sell liquor to minors, were made last night and were brought into court
this morning, where they pleaded not guilty.
Fiske Offord, noted Irish actor who played "The Old Dublin" at the Myers Sunday, was entertained by local Irishmen.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

SALT AND BLOOD PRESSURE.

Restrictions of the salt rations by a salt free or salt poor diet is a measure which has proved beneficial in many diseases, such as rheumatism, gout, chorea, or excessive hydrochloric
acid secretion in the stomach, epilepsy, diabetes, nephritis with dropsy (edema), arteriosclerosis attended with high blood pressure, and some cases of plethoric (full blooded) obesity.

The herbivorous animals must have salt, but the carnivorous animals get enough salt in the flesh and the blood of their prey. Man's salt requirements are determined by his diet but his use of salt as a condiment is determined rather by an artificially cultivated taste. Many of the luxuries or nicknacks people like to indulge in are extremely salty.

Man requires about half a teaspoonful of salt daily, and takes from three to six times as much as he requires.
The excess does various things to health. In the first place it causes the retention in the body of too much water, a condition which is much activated by anemia and malnourished without iron. The excess of salt produces increased osmotic pressure in the tissues, which favors the development of edematous or dropped states and of inflammations. The water loaded if not water logged condition of the tissues
of one who takes too much salt affects the muscles, of course, and causes quick fatigue on moderate exercise or that tired feeling all the time.

Restrictions of the daily intake of salt has been found to reduce effectively reducing hypertension and effective blood pressure. It has brought relief to annoying head noises to many sufferers, particularly those of some degree of nephritis. Restrictions of the salt intake for a period of two or three months often overcomes the boggyiness of the lining membrane of the upper air passages which constantly troubles some eaters and which they fondly call
"catarrh."

Bread may be made without salt.
Fresh meat requires no salt seasoning. Both bread and meat contain about half a day's ration of salt to the pound. Fresh water fish contains little salt, but sea fish contains much.
An egg contains about four grains of salt, which is plenty. Fresh butter need not be salted. Potatoes or rice
may be prepared in many palatable ways without salt.

Smoked bacon, corned beef, codfish,
ham, salt pork, fresh or cured sea
fish, dried or smoked fish, dried meats,
shellfish, brick cheese, Swiss cheese,
margarine, mustard, sausage, bouillon
and meat extracts should not be eaten
if one desires to restrict the salt ration.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Magnesia Cheever.
My brother chews a little of magnesia after each meal. Is there any benefit to be derived, or any danger
from this habit?

Answer.—Magnesia is a comparatively harmless alkali, slightly cathartic in effect if much alkali is present in the stomach. I should not advise chewing it as a habit, however, for that places a burden on the glands
which secrete the hydrochloric acid
in the stomach.

Frontal Albumen Specialist.
Should eggs be eaten sparingly if one has albumen in the kidneys? (N. E. M.)

Answer.—We all have albumen in the kidneys. If you mean albumen in the urine, the eating of eggs has no bearing on it.

Do Not Salt Your Eyes.
Some time ago I started bathing my eyes with salt water and ever since my eyes have been red and irritated. (A. E. H.)

Answer.—Never apply to the eyes a salt solution stronger than one teaspoonful of salt to the pint of boiled water. A stronger solution is "home"
solution, and has about the salt strength of the tears, hence does not irritate.

Q. Were southern slave owners
more humane than the present-day owners of the plantations in the South? (W. C. C.)

A. Many of the southern states placed restrictions on the manumission of slaves which by 1850 had reduced the number of free negroes to one-sixteenth of the total number.
One restriction practically common to all states was that the master must give bond that the freed slave would not become a public charge. A second restriction very common obliged the master to remove the freed slave from the commonwealth in which he was freed. In some places, such as the American Colonization Society for the purpose of providing a settlement for manumitted slaves. During the last century of the slave trade, 4,500 freed slaves were sent out.

Q. What is the age and height of Harold Lloyd? G. J.

A. He is thirty years old, 5 feet and 9 inches tall, and weighs 150 pounds.

Q. How is steel made that will not rust by perspiration or ordinary acid? J. H. G.

A. "Stainless Steel" is a high chromium steel, containing certain percentages of tungsten and nickel.
It is not affected by perspiration or other acids.

Q. Does the mocking bird migrate,
or why does its singing cease about the middle of the summer? H. W. M.

A. The mocking bird is a migratory bird. It is not migratory. It is true that only the male is a singer, and perhaps the reason he ceases his singing is because of the moult which begins the middle of the summer. These birds usually live to be about eight years of age.

Q. How long has the Roosevelt family been in this country? A. J. U.

A. They are descendants of Klaes Mariensen Roosevelt, who emigrated from Holland in 1614.

Q. Who are the duties of the Children's Bureau? K. L. C.

A. Under the law the Bureau is authorized to investigate and report

ters pertaining to child welfare and child life. Such matters as the birth rate, infant mortality, juvenile courts,
accidents and diseases of children,
child labor, the welfare of the various classes affecting children, are specified
in the law as falling within the province of the Bureau.

Q. Is there any chemical action on the human body? G. A. N.

A. There is no chemical action on the human body if pure tin is used,
but very few so-called tin vessels are made of pure tin. The vessels used in the household contain zinc which would most probably act upon the egg yolk.

Kamehameha III had drafted and was negotiating a treaty under which Hawaii should be admitted as a State of the United States.

Q. How many Canadian provinces have rejected prohibition? A. A.

A. Sir John Willison says that three provinces have rejected it.

REORGANIZE MOLINE CO.

The Moline Plow company, Moline, Ill., is to undergo a second reorganization. The company's automobile business is to be segregated into a separate $2,000,000 corporation. Several less profitable units are to be disposed of. Indications are that many of the large implements and companies will reorganize and possibly consolidate, so stringent are financial and business conditions facing the manufacturers of farm products.

NEW CERTIFICATE ISSUE.

treasury announced a new issue of certificates of indebtedness, aggregating $200,000,000 and maturing six months from Sept. 1
